CHESTER SHIP TOWN NEARING COMPLETION

Hundreds of New Houses and Apartments Provided in Buckman Village

The Emergency Housing Corporation will soon have completed hundreds of houses and apartments in Buckman village, near Chester, for the workers of the Chester shipbuilding plant.

The homes are constructed exclusively for the employees of the plant and their families.

There are 287 houses of old English type and 106 modern apartments in the new ship workers' village. In addition, there is to be a large boarding house, the Buckman Inn.

The houses have all modern conveniences. They contain from four to six rooms, and will be rented on a weekly basis.

The apartments are all steam-heated, and are arranged in three and four-room suites. The rental, which embraces heating and janitor service, will also be placed on a weekly basis. In the boarding house there will be accommodations for 150 workers, who will be given furnished rooms with meals at a moderate weekly cost. The inn will provide reading and recreation rooms and will be modern in every respect.

In one corner of the village is an old mansion, which is being repaired to be used as a community house for the ship workers and their families. A number of stores will also be established in the community.

CLEAN-UP DAYS AT HARRIMAN

Housewives Scour to Make Town Spotless

It is clean-up season at Harriman. The modern townsite, which adjoins the Merchants Shipbuilding plant, has plunged into a "spick-and-span" campaign which promises results that will put to shame the spotless Dutch towns that you read about.

The campaign officially started on the day that the big news of the armistice arrived which, needless to say, was celebrated in such an enthusiastic manner that there was some delay in getting the clean-up move under way. Under the direction of the health and sanitation department of the shipyard the residents are now active with brushes, buckets, brooms. Old bottles, cans and innumerable other useless things are being carted away load after load.

The campaign will continue until the last bit of rubbish has vanished from the townsite and shiny cleanliness prevails even in the garret.

Numerous promotions have been recorded in the material shop of the Pusey & Jones Company. Among them are the appointment of John Craig to ship storekeeper, John B. Deibert, hull steel storekeeper, in R. Neff, stock storekeeper, E. J. Fennell, mill-yard storekeeper, P. C. McCormick, ship-lumber storekeeper, W. H. Murphy, stock recorder, and H. T. Helser, receiving clerk.

Joe Stille, formerly a member of the "P. & J." night gang, has been shifted to day work.

Charlie Russell, formerly a "P. & J." grill-grease hand, has been promoted to charge hand in the salvaging department.
